LOCATION

Located in the Thai capital of Bangkok, RAKxa is nestled a world away from the melee of Asia's most frenetic city. Indeed, our idyllic sanctuary in Bang Krachao provides a world where time seems to have stood still. Cut off from the rest of the city on a veritable peninsula carved out by the winding curve of Thailand's mighty Chao Phraya River, much as the undulating course of the river has brought life and progress to the city along its banks, Bang Krachao now infuses the metropolis with a sense of renewal and the verdant stimulation of the surroundings has earned this habitat the nickname "Green Lung of Bangkok".

Bang Krachao is a protected natural reserve, within easy reach of downtown, and a world unto itself, where dense forests and wooded trails take the place of skyscrapers and motorcars. Here, traditional communities continue to practice an idyllic way of life unchanged by the passage of time, guided by a spirituality that weaves itself seamlessly into the cultural fabric. Inspired by the tranquillity and enriching environment, RAKxa's own identity is deeply rooted in the local culture, as well as the ethos of the land. A stay with us affords you professional medical services amidst leafy, tropical surroundings scented by Thai fruits, flowers, and herbs. Sunrises and sunsets will be yours to savour, grass and gardens are ready for your enjoyment barefoot.
